FINED FOR CONTEMPT.

Judge W. W. Maughan Hands Down Decision Against Standard.

Decision Against Standard.

Ogden, Feb. 11.—Judge W. W.
Maughan, accompanied by his stenographer, Fred Barker, came to Ogden last evening to render his decision in the contempt proceedings against the Standard Publishing company et al., which was the outcome of the publication in the Standard and Examiner of a signed article by Mr. Glasmann in which he reviewed the case of J. D.
Skeen against Councilman William
Craig to oust him from office, Atty,
J. N. Kimball swore to the complaint charging the publishing company with contempt.

The court in passing on the case found each of the defendants guilty of contempt, but fixed the punishment very low. He fined the Standard Pubvery low. He fined the Standard Publishing company $25. William Glasmann

$5, and Frank Francis $5. Each of the defendants before sentence was passed pleaded no intention of being in contempt of the court, or of doing anything that would influence the court or jury in deciding the case.

Judge Maughan, in passing on the case, held that it was not necessary for a newspaper editor or writer to cause to be published any article with malice or criminal intent to be in contempt of court, but that if by the publication of any article a witness might be influenced to testify to anything but the facts, it would be in contempt.
